GENEALOGY & HISTORY WORKSHOP

at the Forkland
Community Center
Lincoln Museum

forklandlincolnmuseum.org
in Southwest Boyle County on KY 37, 30 minutes
from Danville or Lebanon

Saturday, May 13, 2017
8:30 a.m. – 3:00 p.m.

Do you really know who your ancestors are? You might be surprised by the results of DNA testing! For example, many people in Kentucky have Native Americans and/or Melungeons in their family trees. This workshop will present information about both of these groups as well as practical details on using DNA testing for genealogical sleuthing.

You are sure to learn much that is fascinating and might be quite useful for your family history studies. There will also be time for seeing the resources in the Lincoln Museum and to network with other genealogical enthusiasts. A delicious lunch will be provided.

Attendance is limited to 50, and preregistration is required by May 8. For additional information, visit forklandlincolnmuseum.org, call Shirley Sheperson, 859-936-2061, or Carolyn Crabtree, 859-516-2028, or e-mail Carolyn at ctree1492@ctreeacres.com.

DIRECTIONS TO FORKLAND COMMUNITY CENTER: From Danville, go south on US 127 to the traffic light at Junction City and turn right onto KY 300, then just after the railroad tracks turn left onto KY 37 and stay on KY 37 all the way (about 10 miles) to the Community Center (on the right). From Lebanon, go east on US 68, turn right on KY 243 (Gravel Switch turnoff), then stay on KY 243 until KY 243 turns right over a bridge, where you should go straight on KY 37; the Community Center is about three miles (on the left). The GPS Coordinates for the Forkland Community Center are:
